WANTED HIS MONEY.

But Got a Pistol Bullet Instead.

AN UNSUCCESSFUL HOLD-UP.

A Plucky Milkman Who Declined to be Robbed—The High-wayman An Old Citizen.

A shooting affair, under rather peculiar circumstances, which will probably result in the death of John Walsh, an old resident of this city, and until recently in the employ of the Lacy Pipe Works, occurred early yesterday morning in the arroyo on Lecourre street, just beyond the Santa Fé tracks, and within about one hundred feet of Walsh's house.

About 8:45 o'clock, as John Bryant, a milkman living on the Glendale road, just this side of the Three-mile House, drove onto Lecourre street, he noticed a man in the bushes a short distance from him. One day last week an attempt had been made to "hold up" Mr. Bryant at this same place, and on the man advancing toward him, he drew his revolver and ordered him to stop, at the same time telling him that if he came any closer he would shoot. This warning was repeated two or three times, no attention being paid to it, and when the man reached the horse's head Mr. Bryant fired. The horse jumped forward on hearing the crack of the pistol, and started forward at a rapid gait, and on looking behind him Mr. Bryant saw the man fall. Without stopping to see what the extent of the man's injuries were, Mr. Bryant drove on to the East Side Station, where he reported the occurrence to Officer Conlee, and surrendered himself to the authorities. An investigation was at once had, and the officers were surprised to find that the wounded man was John Walsh, who was known personally to all of them, and had been occupying the house on Lecourre street, near where the shooting occurred, with his family, for some months past. He was found lying where he fell, and was at once picked up and removed to his home, and Drs. Wise and Carlisle summoned. An examination showed that Walsh was very seriously injured, the bullet, which was of small calibre, having entered the abdomen just above and to the left of the navel and lodged some where in the bowels. Walsh was very much under the influence of liquor, and the physicians had a great deal of trouble in keeping him quiet, as he persisted in trying to get up. He denied all knowledge of the affair, and could tell nothing whatever about how he got shot, saying he did not know how it happened. After dressing his wounds the physicians left, but Officer Conlee remained with Walsh until 11 o'clock, when he had finally quieted down. Dr. Wise is of the opinion that Walsh has a chance of recovery if he will keep perfectly quiet and take proper care of himself.

Mr. Bryant was subsequently brought over to the Central Station, where he remained during the afternoon, and was released by Justice Austin, on his own recognizance stating that he would be present whenever he was wanted. During the day, Mr. Bryant, on being questioned, made substantially the following statement concerning the affair:

"About twenty minutes to 10 o'clock this morning I drove onto Lecourre street, and when just north of the Santa Fé track I observed a man in the bushes about a rod from me. He ran out and cried: 'Stop, don't you stop; I want your money.' He ran in front of my mare, and she shied to one side and nearly threw me. I sprang out of the car and said: 'Stand back, I will shoot,' but he paid no heed and kept advancing, and tried to catch my horse by the bits. After I had warned him three times, and he paying no attention, I grasped my gun, a 32-caliber Smith & Wesson, and fired at him and he fell. My mare jumped as if she had been stung, and I thought I had run over him. I then drove away, as I did not know but that there might be more of them. I drove on to Chestnut street and stopped at the first house I came to, which was that of W. Richter. After a time I aroused him and related what had occurred, and he advised me not to go back, but to go to the Police Station in East Los Angeles and secure an officer. I did so. At the station I met Officer Conlee, and after repeating my story gave my name. Subsequently I was brought to the station, and this time I was not the first time that an attempt had been made to hold me up in the same place. One day last week, and I believe the same man jumped out of some brush and endeavored to get hold of my horse's bits. At that time the animal made a sudden spring and in a moment was out of the sight of the scene. Upon two other occasions I observed him standing between some trees by the side of the road, but he made no attempt to stop me."

The affair caused quite a sensation on the East Side, and was the general topic of conversation during the day. As stated above, an attempt was made to "hold up" Mr. Bryant at this same place about a week ago, and there may have been other attempts. At any rate, the matter was reported at the East Side station, and for several nights, or rather mornings, Officer Romans has been stationed at the place, but no trouble of any kind occurred, and yesterday morning the officer was not in that locality.

As to Walsh's movements, he has been accounted for up to 1 o'clock yesterday morning. He has been drinking for several days, and Wednesday night he was at the saloon at the corner of Hayes street and Pasadena. He then left and started for the West Side, and about 1 o'clock was found on San Fernando street by an officer. He was then very drunk, but was able to walk, and being known to the officer, he was taken to the Downey avenue viaduct and started on his way home at about 1 o'clock. His house is but a comparatively short distance from the viaduct, and he should have reached it in 15 or 20 minutes from the time the officer left him, but nothing was heard of him from that time until he was picked up where he had been shot. Walsh's wife was up when he was shot, and, knowing that he had been drinking, had been on the look-out for him all night. She stated to Officer Conlee that she was on the porch and saw or heard the milkman when he delivered the milk at a house near by and that shortly after she heard a pistol shot, and her husband cried out: "Mamma, I am shot" or something of that kind.

Walsh has a wife and four children, and has always been regarded as an honest, hard-working man, but somewhat given to drink. He has been a resident of Los Angeles for sixteen years past, and for some time past has been in the employ of the Lacy Pipe Works, and it is said was only laid off because there was no work in the shop.

There are several queer features about the case, and it will be thoroughly investigated. Walsh's friends insist that there must be some mistake about him attempting to stop the milkman, and seem to think that he was only drunk, and was staggering toward the wages, when Mr. Bryant, who had been "held up" once before at the same place, became nervous, and thinking that another attempt was about to be made, called to Walsh to stop, but that the latter was too drunk to know what he meant.

On the other hand, however, the fact that Mr. Bryant is not a nervous and excitable man, and that the previous attempt was made at the same place, and under almost the same circumstances, is significant. Besides this, shortly after the matter became known, John W. Park, another milkman, reported at the East Side station that a few minutes before the shooting occurred he had been ordered to stop by the same man in the same identical spot, but that he had whipped up his horses and made his escape.

REDONDO.

The Boom in Shipping Continues. Arrivals and Departures.

REDONDO BEACH, Aug. 28.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] We have had a strong breeze here all day, but it was so mild and serene that it was more than pleasant, and both railroads were well patronized.

This has been one of the unusual days for fishing. The seine was pulled by Miles and Maxey and it was thought at one time that it could not be brought ashore, it was filled with fish to such an extent. Then from the wharf the little girls and small boys all had good luck, as well as the expert fisherman. A small boy caught a yellow tail weighing over twenty pounds, and it was nearly as long as he was high. Many large fish were caught weighing from ten to twenty pounds by those throwing the surf line. Small fish, especially mackerel, were caught in abundance. The surf was grand for bathing. Lovers of a bath took advantage of it.

The new large pavilion is now receiving its first coat of paint upon the roof; it is a drab or dark slate color, and will be bordered with artistic taste to finish it off.

Mr. Cotton is every afternoon at the end of the wharf at the fruit and news stand taking registrations, so no one can complain of not having access to the ballot box at the coming election.

L. M. Du Quesney, who was recently invited to resign as freight agent for the Santa Fé Company and agent for Wells-Fargo & Co.'s express, is seen no more, and his shortages are still in a state of secrecy, but doubtless some light will be thrown upon the matter very soon.

At present it is impossible to accommodate the different lines of navigation, steamer, freight and general oceanic traffic upon our wharf. The piles are here and are being tarred for the extension of the wharf and the widening of it. Today there were tons of freight of all kinds upon the wharf piled up and all hands were busy loading and unloading freight to and from the steamers and cars. Three steamers and three lumber schooners were at the wharf at one time. Three thousand sacks of grain are on the wharf now for shipment and 9,000 sacks of barley and wheat, partly here and daily coming from the Dominguez ranch.

The steamer Bonita arrived today with 50 tons of freight and general merchandise and is expected to load with grain and return to San Francisco.

The Los Angeles arrived with 90 tons. At the same time was to be seen the Wilmington, from San Diego, heavily loaded.

Many new faces and prominent persons were seen here today.

The thermometer at 9 a.m. was 65° at 12 m., 73°.

Some 20 or more enjoyed themselves horseback riding to the point and some away beyond the salt works, returning by the beach.

Teaching a Profession.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Teaching is a profession, than which there is none higher or more worthy of respect. There are those who bear the name of teacher, who are undoubtedly day laborers in the work, and are unworthy the name, yet the dignity and character of the truly professional teacher should not be considered lightly for that reason.

The day-laborer-teacher, the 9 to 4 o'clock, should be eradicated from the profession, and the real true teacher looked upon as a man or woman worthy the care and moulding of human minds, fitting them for the highest type of citizenship.

Who would think of comparing the compensation of the physician or lawyer with that of the common laborer whose duties require no special preparations? The intellectual development certainly calls for as broad and high a type of professional thinkers as can be claimed for the physician, lawyer or any other professional mind. Teachers, maintain your standing, and tax manipulators consider well how you handle the question of developing the young minds of our boys and girls. Can you afford to cut the salaries of good teachers? Can you afford to send your children to cheap teachers?

Before reducing salaries, would it not be well to ask why it is necessary to pay $1890 per month for the supervision of the city schools?

From the report of the meeting of School Board, July 22, 1890, it appears that there are ten principals or assistant superintendents. These with other superintending officers carry the monthly expense for supervision near $2000.

THE RAILROADS.

An Electric Plant for the L. A. and P.

THE PAPERS ALREADY SIGNED.

Some of the Big Stockholders in the Terminal Road Men of National Reputation—General Notes.

A few days ago THE TIMES published an article to the effect that the owners of the Los Angeles and Pacific road were negotiating to have an electric plant put in. Yesterday the contract was signed with the Westinghouse Company to put in a plant and equip the road as soon as possible.

This means that Santa Monica and Los Angeles will be connected by an electric road before next spring, and the people along the line of the foothills will have easy access to the city. The Los Angeles and Pacific closed down just after the big washout last winter, and up to a few weeks ago it looked as if nothing would be done, but a railroad building boom has struck Southern California, and there is no telling when it will end. This road will open up some of the most desirable residence property in the county, and the chances are that lots will be laid out all along the line to Santa Monica.

THE BUILDING BOOM.

A glance over the names of the stockholders of the new company that has just taken hold of the Los Angeles, Pasadena and Glendale road for the purpose of extending it east and also to San Pedro and Ventura, will convince any one that railroad building will boom in Southern California this fall and winter. Following is a list of the stockholders: B. F. Hobart, residing at St. Louis; Charles H. Bailey, residing at St. Louis; T. B. Burkett, residing at Los Angeles; W. H. Workman, residing at Los Angeles; Dan McFarland, residing at Los Angeles; H. T. Lee, residing at Los Angeles; R. C. Kerens, residing at St. Louis; vice president S. L. A. and T. Baldwin; George E. Leighton, residing at St. Louis; director Union Pacific Railway; George H. Leaden, residing at St. Louis; E. F. Leonard, residing at Springfield, Ill.; president T. P. and M. Railroad; George W. Parker, residing at St. Louis; president Cairo Short Line; S. W. Fordice, residing at St. Louis; president S. L. A. and T. Baldwin; Charles H. Goodard, residing at St. Louis; Jeff Chandler, residing at New York City (railroad president); Thomas Lanigan, residing at Washington, D. C.; Alvah Mansur, residing at St. Louis; Morgan Jones, residing at Fort Worth, Tex. (railroad president); John T. Davis, residing at St. Louis; Thomas H. West, residing at St. Louis.

Several of the above gentlemen have been prominently identified with railroad building in the interest of Jay Gould and the Union Pacific Company for years past, and when such men come to Los Angeles and put themselves in a little two-bit road, it certainly means something good for Southern California. These people and the present managers of the Santa Fé Company are the only ones in the United States that the Southern Pacific Company has ever feared. They have fought against the coming of these people on the coast for years, and the general change and shake-up in the Southern Pacific Company a few months ago was in anticipation of this very move. They knew that their president, Senator Stanford, was getting too old and childish to cope with such men, so they shamed him, and put the only man in their ranks who is capable of fighting Eastern railroad men, in charge. Mr. Huntington has not been idle since he took the helm of the Southern Pacific in his own hands, but he did not get hold in time and as was predicted in these columns just after his election, the fur will fly in the camps of these great railroad magnates before the close of 1890.

THE BRAKEMEN'S STRIKE.

All danger of a strike among the brakemen on the Southern Pacific is over for the time being, and the company is confident that they will have no more trouble. The trouble is great out of a demand on the part of the brakemen for an advance from $65 to $66 a month. At first the company flatly refused to grant the request, and refused to treat with the committee, but they changed their minds after talking the matter over among themselves, and consented to give the men $65 a month. They intimated, however, that on the 1st of October they will make a general change of some kind, but what that no one seems to know. They further intimated that they will not be compelled to let their old men out for it is a well known fact among railroad men, that the Southern Pacific Company has in its employ at present the most capable corps of brakemen in the United States. Almost all of the men have grown up with the company, and have a training that few men get.

There need be no fear but what Dr. Bowell, if he be selected as your standard bearer in this campaign, will care for every interest of the district to the remotest precinct of the remotest county. Geographically, we are situated, unfortunately in some respects, so that our demands upon the Congress of these United States have thus far not been very great, and probably will not be, but we shall be represented for the little that we do want. We promise you that this will give to the interests of these district counties all that they may ask or demand.

The one great idea that his candidacy represents is the certain, patriotic and unselfish spontaneous enthusiasm and devotion of the people among whom he has lived and dwelt these long years. I pledge you, fellow-citizens, that, notwithstanding this universal devotion, this affection in which we hold him, notwithstanding the ardor with which we present his claims, while Fresno county cannot boast of thousands of Republican voters majority, we can boast of having done what every man has tried to do, and what even the angels cannot surpass—we have done our duty. I say to you now that if any other should be chosen for this place, Fresno county will do the best she can for his success and join with you in celebrating the victory when it shall have been gained.

East-bound freight business was never so good as it is at the present time. Yesterday the Southern Pacific Company sent 111 loaded freight cars out of this city for the East. Twenty-three of them were loaded with Southern California Irish potatoes.

Through the attorney of the Santa Fé, Lester Scott, and his associates, who secured a right-of-way for a railroad terminus on Rattlesnake Island, were served with condemnation papers yesterday. The suit was begun last winter but the defendants were not served until yesterday.

Teachers' Salaries.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Whenever the city authorities are down with their periodical attacks of economy and retrenchment, it would be amusing, if it was not so exasperating, to note their frantic efforts for relief. Looking beyond the mass of well-paid and not too hard-worked men who fill the various offices in the city administration, their eyes rest on the quiet group of women school teachers, and by abstracting somewhat from their hard-earned salaries, they expect to find soothing for their sufferings, when an indignant public calls for a halt in the extravagance that has marked their official career.

The teachers, nearly all women, and so unrepresented in the Board, the Superintendence or the Council, have no voice in this matter, and must submit with what grace they may, to wrongs which are understood best by a teacher, and a woman.

From my long experience as a teacher, and from very intimate acquaintance with the excellent corps of women instructors in many schools, I think I am justified in pronouncing the recent proposal to begin the work of retrenchment at that end of the line as unjust as it is impolitic.

The salaries paid for nine months, work must suffice for the expenses of twelve, and, I testify from personal knowledge, few of the teachers are extravagant in dress or mode of living, yet not many are able to place even small sums to their credit reserved for the coming days when they can no longer work.

This means that Santa Monica and Los Angeles will be connected by an electric road before next spring, and the people along the line of the foothills will have easy access to the city. The Los Angeles and Pacific closed down just after the big washout last winter, and up to a few weeks ago it looked as if nothing would be done, but a railroad building boom has struck Southern California, and there is no telling when it will end. This road will open up some of the most desirable residence property in the county, and the chances are that lots will be laid out all along the line to Santa Monica.

Let retrenchment begin where it should, with the strong, the well paid, the now overworked or the useless officers of the city, and let the school teacher manage, if she can, to get from her present salary, a fair living for herself and others dependent upon her, an interest on the large outlay for her education, a little for necessary recreation and a few dollars to lay aside for the accidents of sickness and the years when work is no longer possible.

IN BOTH HOUSES.

Tariff Still the Topic in the Senate.

An Amendment Adopted Concerning Duties on Citrus Fruits.

Party Lines Obliterated for the Time Being.

The House Lets the Fisticuff Episode Drop for the Present and Passes the Lard Bill, Etc.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON (D. C.) Aug. 28.—[By the Associated Press.] Senate.—In the Senate the resolution providing for the suspension of work on the Lafayette statue was amended to provide for the selection of another site and adopted.

The debate on the Tariff Bill was resumed. Mr. Aldrich gave notice of two amendments he would offer. One is a new section stating that the exemptions from duty on sugar, coffee, molasses, tea and hides, are made with a view to secure reciprocal trade with the countries producing those articles, and it authorizes the President to suspend by proclamation the provisions of the law for free introduction of sugar, molasses, coffee, tea and hides, the production of countries whose laws may be reciprocally unequal and unjust. The duties on sugar are to be fixed as under existing laws. The duty on coffee is to be three cents a pound; on tea ten cents a pound, and on hides one and one-half cents a pound.

The second amendment subjects fish from any country to a duty of only 1 cent a pound so long as American fishing vessels shall be admitted into all ports of such country to purchase supplies, including bait, and to land fish for shipment in bond to the United States without restraint.

Consideration was resumed of the paragraph relating to rice, amendments reported by the Finance Committee being to reduce the duty on cleaned rice from 2 to 1½ cents a pound, on uncleansed rice from 1½ to 1 cent per pound, and on rice flour, rice meal and broken rice from 1½ to a quarter of a cent per pound. Finally this paragraph was amended by making the duty on cleaned rice 2 cents per pound, on uncleansed rice 1½ cents, and on rice flour, rice meal and broken rice a quarter of a cent per pound; this being a modification of the committee's amendment. No amendments were offered to the paragraphs relating to rye flour, wheat, flour, butter, cheese and fresh milk.

Mr. Carlisle moved to strike out of the paragraph relating to condensed milk, the words "sugar of milk, 8 cents per pound." Rejected.

The committee amendment to strike out the proviso for a drawback on sugar was agreed to. At this point paragraph 135 (which was passed over in its regular order) was taken up. It relates to railway bars and the committee amendment, which reduces the rate from 6-10 to 5-10 of a cent per pound, was agreed to.

The committee amendment to reduce the duty on flaxseed, linseed and other oil seeds from 30 to 25 cents a bushel, was at the suggestion of Mr. Aldrich) rejected.

The paragraph relating to hops was passed over without action, Mr. Gorman having proposed to reduce the duty on hops from 15 to 8 cents a pound. The next paragraph, to reduce the duty on garden seeds from 40 to 20 per cent ad valorem, was agreed to.

A substitute reported from the Finance Committee to the paragraph as to the duty on tin cans containing shell fish, was, at the suggestion of Mr. Aldrich, disagreed to, leaving the paragraph just as it came from the House.

The substitute of the Finance Committee for the paragraph as to oranges, lemons and limes was agreed to. Party lines were entirely disregarded in the vote, many Republican Senators voting against the committee's amendment and many Democratic Senators for it.

In the paragraph relating to salt, the Finance Committee recommended striking out the proviso for a rebate.

Mr. McPherson moved to strike out the whole paragraph taxing salt 12 cents per 100 pounds in packages and 8 cents per bulk, so as to leave salt on the free list.

The vote on Mr. McPherson's motion was, yeas, 13, nays 22, not a quorum. The bill was laid aside, between ten and eleven pages being disposed of today.

The House Lard Bill was presented to the Senate and referred to the Committee on Agriculture.

Adjourned.

House.—The House finally sustained Mr. Reed's decision that the Lard Bill was unfinished business, and it was passed by a vote of 126 to 31.

Mr. Richardson of Tennessee called attention to the scene in the House yesterday and suggested that the gentlemen engaged in the altercation should be allowed an opportunity to explain their conduct. The suggestion was not heeded and the House resumed consideration of the bill for the adjustment of the claims of laborers under the eight-hour law. Morning soon expired and the bill went over.

The House then under special orders proceeded to consideration of the bill called by Mr. Connell of Nebraska constituting eight hours a day's work for all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by or on behalf of contractors doing work or furnishing material for the Government and providing penalties for violations of its provisions.

Mr. Cutcheon moved to strike out the clause which provides that no contractor shall permit any laborer to work more than eight hours. Agreed to.

On motion of Mr. McComas an amendment was adopted striking out the clause requiring contracts for furnishing material to the Government to be on the basis of the eight-hour law. The bill then passed.

The conference report on the bill for relief of suffering in Oklahoma was submitted and agreed to.

Arizona Republicans.

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Aug. 28.—The Republican Territorial Convention today nominated Hon. George W. Cheyney of Cochise for Congress and Frank Nicholas of Cochise and J. M. W. Moore of Yavapai for joint Councilmen.

The platform endorses the administration of President Harrison, and the Lodge Election law, demands that the Silver Bill, and insists that free coinage of silver must follow. It demands the admission of Arizona as a State. Of the Mormon question, the platform, after reciting the vices of Mormonism, says: "The Mormons as a people are un-American and disloyal. For less reasons than these the Chinese were excluded. The Mormon element in our midst is constantly increasing and the evil of their lives is a blot upon the good name and fame of the Territory. We therefore demand of Congress that before it adjourns it shall pass the bill now pending before it known as the act for the purification of elections in Arizona."

BEFF FOR ALL.

The American Steer to Feed the Universe.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—[By the Associated Press.] A new enterprise involving $1,000,000 has been entered into by Nelson Morris, the packer. It is the establishment of a slaughter and packing house as well as stock yard at the seaboard, East and West. The Interstate Stock Yard Company is the name of the new organization. It filed articles with the State Department at Trenton, N. J., on Monday with a capital of $1,000,000. The new company will at once begin building houses in New Jersey, where all meats for export across the Atlantic will be slaughtered. In San Francisco Morris will build slaughter houses, canning establishments and stock yards. This will protect his Western export trade. These houses will reduce loss by a strike at any one point to a minimum and it is likely Morris will build houses at other points on the coast. The object of the new departure is to extend the dressed beef trade to fields not yet opened up. The Oriental capitals and many islands in the Pacific Ocean have heretofore been strangers to the American dressed beef industry, and it is intended to introduce the meats in that territory.

POWDERLY'S REPLY TO CHIEF ENGINEER ARTHUR.

The Lake Shore Switchmen Go Out and Tie Up the Road—A Prospect for Arbitration.

By Telegraph to The Times.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—[By the Associated Press.] Powderly makes the following statement, after commenting on Chief Arthur's letter:

"The main question has not been touched upon by Arthur in anything I have seen yet. A simple expression from his lips in opposition to taking the places of firemen by engineers who are Brotherhood men would settle the matter, and that he has not done yet."

THE LAKE SHORE LINE TIED UP.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—The switchmen in the employ of the Lake Shore railroad struck last night, completely tying up all business of the road as far as Chicago is concerned, the trouble grew out of the stock yards trouble. Superintendent Amsden took a crew of men down to the stock yards yesterday afternoon. When they reached there the men deserted. Amsden then discharged them. This precipitated a strike of night men. At a meeting this morning of the day force, at which Amsden was present, thirty-four of the sixty men present signed a paper agreeing to stand by the company. The remainder decided to go with the strikers.

Representatives of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid Association held a meeting this morning with the Grievance Committee of the switchmen on all roads running into Chicago. The meeting was called to devise means, if possible, to settle the difficulties threatening the railroad traffic of the city. Before the meeting opened Grand Organizer Hall said to a reporter: "The situation is just this: If any road attempts to compel the switchmen to handle freight from the stockyards it will very speedily have a strike on its hands. In this way the latter will be brought to the attention of the association, which will make the fight its own. In that way a general tie-up of all the roads may become a reality."

There is a prospect of settlement of the Chicago and Alton strike. A committee of the strikers is now in conference with the general manager.

ALBANY (N. Y.) Aug. 28.—The State Board of Arbitration has served notice on the New York Central and strikers that it will begin inquiry into the strike next Tuesday.

A BIG RAFT WRECKED.

PORLTAD (Me.) Aug. 28.—One section of Leary's raft has arrived here in tow of the tug Dirigo, which reports a total loss of the rest of the raft, which consisted of 18 sections. The loss occurred off Seal Harbor. A storm arose, and the raft becoming unmanageable, dragged toward the shore, pulling the tug with it. The tug was almost in the breakers before it cut loose from the raft to save itself. The raft went ashore, where it was broken to pieces, and is a total loss.

A KENTUCKY DUEL.

MIDDLESBOROUGH (Ky.) Aug. 28.—A desperate duel between Marsh Turner and Steve Wannick, last night, resulted in the death of Wannick and fatal wounding of Turner. The two men fought like demons for 15 minutes, Turner using a revolver and Wannick a bowie knife. A hundred men witnessed the battle, but all were powerless to interfere.

Model of Grace and Health.

Lady Florence Dixie is reported as a model of physical grace and health. She is a devout and enthusiastic believer in the religion of exercise. Since childhood she has always been an early riser. Straight from her bed she plunges into a cold tub and emerges therefrom warm and glowing; she feels the blood coursing through her veins, and the ruddy health which a good circulation always engenders. The cold bath she never neglects; summer or winter she welcomes it. Then, before breakfast a sharp walk, or perhaps a quarter of a mile's quick run, or a two-mile course at a slower pace, or a gallop across country on horseback. Any of these gives an appetite for breakfast. Later on she uses the dumb bell or Indian club, or frequents the gymnasium. In all athletic sports—rowing, riding, cricket, lawn tennis, etc., she is at home, and, some say, is a first-class hand.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—[By the Associated Press.] Richard F. Carroll, member of the large wholesale liquor firm of Carroll & Carroll, was shot and killed early this evening by John M. Chenowith, proprietor of the Peerless saloon. Chenowith then shot and killed himself.

Chenowith owed Carroll a large sum of money and was summoned to Carroll's office to make arrangements for its payment. Chenowith disputed the amount claimed and, while Carroll was going over the ledger with his book-keeper, stepped up behind and putting a 45-caliber pistol to the back of Carroll's head, blew his brains out. Chenowith then stepped into the back room and shot himself through the head, dying instantly.

About ten years ago Chenowith arrived in San Francisco from Arizona, where he had gained considerable notoriety as a gambler and sporting man. Chenowith decided to open an elegant saloon. He made known his desire to Mr. Carroll, who told him to draw on him for the necessary funds. At least $20,000 was put into the place, every cent of it furnished by Carroll. Chenowith thrived. He fairly coined money until a couple of years ago, when he lost all he had and could borrow in a minute stock debt. Carroll still furnished the financial lubricant which made the wheels of Chenowith's business run smoothly. The young man again prospered, but according to the story told by his victim's friends, he took no steps to learn the amount of his indebtedness. The figure Chenowith reached $20,000 and Carroll began to importune him for a settlement. Recently the relations between the men became highly strained. About two weeks ago Chenowith called upon Carroll at his office. Angry words passed between them. Carroll threatened to close out the saloon if its proprietor did not take some steps to settle his account. To this Chenowith retorted that if Carroll attempted any such thing he would be sorry for it.

Today Carroll sent Chenowith a note demanding an immediate interview. Chenowith answered in person, arriving at the liquor store soon after 4 o'clock in the afternoon. After a brief consultation Carroll demanded that Chenowith give him a bill of sale of the Peerless. This the latter refused to do, at the same time denying the amount of the indebtedness claimed by Carroll.

D. McDonald, book-keeper of the firm, was the only eye-witness to the tragedy. He at once rushed into the street and informed the first man he met that two men were lying dead in the office. Within two minutes the place was thronged with people and when the police arrived on the scene the street for half a block on either side of the entrance was next to impassable. Coronor Eaton consented that the body of Carroll should be taken to an undertaking establishment instead of to the Morgue, as usual. With the body of Chenowith the regular course was pursued.

THE RED ROSE.

[San José Mercury.]

The people in Southern California seem to be having all the fun that there is in the campaign. The breeze that comes to us from all the country round about Los Angeles is vibrant with the melody of brass bands and the clamor of people shouting for Markham. The enthusiasm is revealed in every exchange that comes from that glowing section of our glorious land, and with it comes something sweet and fair which we have not generally known in American politics. This is the red rose, which the South is wearing as an emblem of loyalty to the dashing leader of the Republican party. This, we believe, is the first time that any party in America has ever adopted a symbol of beauty with a sentiment of poetry. There have been coon-skin caps, hickory poles, polk stocks, white hats and red bandanas at the head of our political parades, but not until now did any flower of garden or field exhale its odors in our processions. The choice, however, is a happy one, and no small part of the rapture and the glow of the grand human which is now ringing through the cities and resounding through the fields of the southern part of the State is due to the beauty and the odors of the red, red rose.

MARKHAM OR POND?

[San Francisco Call.]

Either Colonel H. H. Markham or Major E. B. Pond will, under the ordinary course of events, be the next Governor of California. The few Republicans who urged Morrow upon the Republican Convention are now called upon to choose between the nominees of the convention and the man whom Buckley caused to be nominated by the Democratic Convention. Every voter has a right to choose between candidates, but no voter can justly claim to be a Republican while pursuing a course designed to aid Buckley's nominees. Governor Waterman and Private Secretary Boruck are on record as saying before the nomination was made that they would not support Markham if he should be nominated. These gentlemen exercise the right which every voter possesses, but they are thereby released from duty as Republicans. There are other Republicans who supported Morrow before the convention who are in a less manly way doing all they can to discredit the Republican nominees. Republicans of this stamp should bear in mind that the choice is now confined to Markham or Pond. Morrow is out of the race.

Tattooing a Fair Arrow.

(Cincinnati Enquirer.)

A handsome daughter of a family living in the vicinity of Ohio avenue left home some months ago, ostensibly to visit friends in a distant State.

Her stay was protracted, and in her letters home she described the good times she was having in the society of her lady friends. She returned last week and the secret of her escapades which probably never had been divulged had not an accident revealed

it. On the second day after her arrival her mother had occasion to enter the young lady's room while she was still asleep. The fond mother's eye rested with a loving glance on her sleeping child. Suddenly she uttered a scream, and before the fair sleeper was fully conscious, clutched the girl's foot and fixed her gaze on the well-torn ankle. She almost fell into a faint, or on that shapeless member the girl's ankles were tattooed in bright red India ink. It is believed that a plausibly explanation was given, but the secret lies between mother and daughter, and the artist in that distant State.

Real Cause of Boyle O'Reilly's Death.

[George Parsons Lathrop.]

When I last saw him, in June, he was discouraged and sad; not for himself, for he never made any personal complaint—and, besides, he was peculiarly prosperous; but because of the hopelessness of the conflict between generous idealism for the good of humanity, and that selfish indifference which controls most individuals.

Whether they belong to the small class that rules, or to the great, mass that pretends to rule, yet in each submit to the dictates of the few.

Boyle O'Reilly is said to have died from failure of the heart. My sincere belief is that he died, not from failure of the heart, but from the failure of society, and of those who now parade as men, to make room for a great and generous heart which abhors with good will for all our kind. It is well that we have such a man to mourn for, in remembering him, we shall learn to hope for and to produce other men like him.

Work for Women.

WILD BEASTS OF INDIA.

SPORTSMEN FIND PLENTY OF EXCITING QUARRIES.

The Wild Boar Is the Best and Bravest. The Rhinoceros' Acute Senses of Smell and Hearing—Points on Hunting the Savage Animals.

Of all India animals the wild boar is the best and bravest. I have seen a great deal of him, having for many years hunted him on horseback or with a line of elephants to drive him out of the thick cover, so that other men well mounted on fleet horses might pursue and slay him with their spears. I was but an indifferent performer with the hog spear, and have no feats of prowess to recount, though I once took a first spear where about ten other men were eager for that honor; but it was a very small boar, and it was quite his own fault that he fell into my hands, for I was sitting smoking at the end of a covert, just thinking of starting for home after a bland morning, when the animal rushed out and in self defense I was obliged to spear it. How angry some of the other men were at my luck, though they did not all know what I expected it was.

I was most interesting to watch the dodges and devices of a cunning old gray boar as I stood in my howdah and tried to get the elephants to drive him out at a point convenient for the riders. The boar usually had his own ideas as to the line he would take if he were compelled to face the open; but before coming to that last resource he would try everything else. Perhaps it was not heroic conduct on his part, but he would seek to induce the old fat sow, his wife, with her infant progeny, to go out and show themselves as a blind to the hunters. If there were any of his older sons in the jungle he would rout them from their hiding places and try to drive them out, to become a vicarious sacrifice.

THE CUNNING BOAR.

He would lie down and hide himself in an incredible small patch of grass, so that the elephants might pass him by unsuspecting; or, if too carelessly pressed by a loose line, he would charge right at some loitering elephant's legs, and there are very few elephants that will not flinch and turn aside from a wild boar's charge. It needed much pluck to be with him to contend with all the wiles of the clever animal. I usually carried a gun loaded with snake shot, and a charge fired into the grass or bushes just behind where the boar was moving generally started him, and if a chance bullet hit him he thought it best to quit the covert and trust to his speed to reach some stronger shelter or swamp impenetrable to elephants and horses.

It takes a very fast horse to catch a full grown boar in a gallop over the open plain, but every experienced rider knows that he must go as hard as he can if he means to spear the animal. I shall not try to repeat the oft told story of the mortal combat that ensues. Oftentimes I could see all the incidents of the chase from my howdah, for not unfrequently the boar when overtaken would jink and come round again to the jungle from which he had started. When men ride really well the boar seldom escapes, unless he has the luck to find some deep swamp through which the horses cannot follow him.

A full grown wild boar in lower Bengal is about thirty inches high, but they are sometimes found as high as thirty-six inches, and there is a skeleton in the Indian museum in Calcutta of a boar that was forty inches at the shoulder. There is almost as much difference in the anatomy of a wild boar and a tame one as there is between a man-of-war and a merchant ship.

THE RHINOCEROS.

In the size of the brain the wild boar has a marked superiority, and perhaps this accounts for his great courage, which makes him fearless of everything. Once making, looking out of a walled carriage, I saw a wild boar coming down at the passing train, but he dashed it for the train was going too fast for him, and he was a little hampered in forcing his way through the wire railway fencing.

I had something to do with rhinoceros, but never succeeded in shooting one, though. I sought them for three long and hot days under the guidance of the best sportsmen in Assam, and I visited their haunts in the Sunderbunds, with men of great local experience. But the rhinoceros, like all big animals, has acute senses of smelling and hearing, and makes off at the slightest indication of danger. We had a large one in the Calcutta Zoo which was very tame, and when it got a bad access in the head, of which it eventually died, it used to come to lie down to have its ear syringed by the veterinary surgeon, whom it learned to recognize.

There were two fine rhinoceros in the rajah's menagerie at Burdwan in the enclosure in which the crocodiles were kept, for the pond in which the crocodiles used to swim served also as a bathing place for the rhinoceros. One day a young pig had been turned into the enclosure to be come food for the crocodiles, and as these animals don't travel very fast on land piggy led them a lively chase, and at last, perhaps by chance, it took refuge under the legs of one of the rhinoceros, which was looking on solemnly, but when the crocodiles approached the rhinoceros he latter protected his home and warned the crocodiles to be off. And so the pig survived and grew up and lived for some months under the protection of the rhinoceros.—Longman's Magazine.

A Mistaken Notion.

It should be distinctly understood that the idea that ice water is injurious is a mistaken notion, imported with other English fads, like the docking of horses' manes and tails, drawing the vowels and the "stony British stare." Spinners with chronic indigestion, stout women with their interiors in a state of constant irritation, while stocks were inflamed and people getting over the grippe, with internal weak fangs and irritable to an incredible degree right find ice water injurious, as cold well water would be poured over a patient in a high fever, or rather like throwing cold water on a red hot boiler. Cold water is intolerable to an inflamed eye, which finds warm water soothing, and inflamed stomachs rebel against sudden chilling draughts in the same way, but nobody feels that cold water is unsafe for healthy eyes or healthy throats.—Shirley Dare in New York Times.

Old Time Boddie.

The "general court" did not go without its little perquisites in colony days. According to Dr. Shurtliff's "Topography of Boston" Governor's island was "granted and confirmed to the said John Winthrop and his heirs in fee farms for which they are to pay only two bushels of apples every year—one bushel to the governor and another to the general court in winter—the same to be of the best apples there growing." "It is supposed," says Dr. Shurtliff, "that the apples were faithfully paid in every year, and that each of the members of the general court carried home his pockets full, for again in 1642 the following significant entry appears upon the records: 'The bushel of apples was paid in.'—Boston Transcript.

Recreation.

"No one," declares Cicero, "seems to me free who does not sometimes do nothing." Then he goes on to tell how certain Romans amused themselves in the country by indulging boy like, in all sorts of frolics. Evidently they jumped and ran themselves into physical well being and ability to take up the severer duties of life again.

"Who is your doctor?" said some one to Carlyle.

"My best doctor," replied he, "is a horse."—Youth's Companion.

IN THE SPRING.

Nature should be assisted in the spring to throw off the heaviness of the sluggish winter circulation of the blood. Nothing does it so well, so prompt or so safe as SSS's Sperma.

I have used S. S. S. & S. a number of years, and consider it the best tonic and blood remedy that I ever used. In a act I would not attempt to enter upon a spring or summer in this climate with out it.

THE POSTOFFICE PLUM.

Plenty of Applicants for the Place.

CAPT. DRAKE IN THE FIELD.

Strongly Recommended—A Creditable War Record—Notes, Comments and Locals.

There are several Republicans who have an eye on the Pasadena post-office in case Mr. Masters retires or the authorities at Washington see fit to appoint a Republican in his place before his term expires. The applicants for the place are busy pushing their respective claims, and it remains to be seen who will capture the coveted prize.

One of the earliest men in the field was Capt. Drake, who is at present serving in the department here. It is no disparagement to the other applicants to say that Capt. Drake's standing as a citizen, his intelligence and unquestioned integrity, and the knowledge he has of the requirements and duties of the position, would insure a competent and satisfactory official, if appointed.

The Captain's war record is one any man might feel proud of. Among other testimonials to his services might be mentioned that of Henry Boynton, late colonel of the Eighth Regiment Maine Volunteers, and brevet brigadier-general, U. S. Volunteers, who writes: "In the late war and long previously I was well acquainted with Capt. Drake. He was a captain in the Eighth Maine Volunteers, and I know he was one of the very first men to enlist, but four days after the firing on Fort Sumter, in April, 1861. He served until after the war closed. I personally know that his service was of the highest order of merit, that he was brave, faithful and attentive to duty. I have always known him as a man of high moral character, honor, integrity and affability."

The Captain has a strong backing here among the G. A. R. men, and has plenty of outside friends, and it is not too much to say that his chance is as good as that of any of the applicants of capturing the plum, in case in drops.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Snow still remains on the ground in the Yosemite region. Many mountains in the Northern Sierras are still covered twenty feet deep, and the result is that the melting snow keeps the streams full and the waterfalls superb. In a month or so Old Baldy will don his mantle of white for the winter, thus enhancing the beauty of our autumnal scenery.

Wilson's Peak is destined to become a popular summer resort, and in case a railroad is run to its summit, a spot of world-wide reputation, and attractive all the year round. As it is, many people prefer it to the seashore, and when more easy access is furnished and various contemplated improvements are carried out, Santa Monica and Redondo and Catalina may well look to their laurels.

The habit of chewing gum, which many of our young men and some of the young ladies are addicted to, is not a pretty one. A city physician says the persons subject to nose bleed are the only ones justified in chewing gum. Nine times out of ten, he says, the increased activity of the facial muscles thus produced will arrest the breath.

Some day the Cross Railroad will make things hum. Its incorporation as a part of the Los Angeles Terminal Railway system points all the more plainly to the fact that some day the present Los Angeles, Pasadena and Glendale road will be a part and portion of one of the big trunk systems that extend from ocean to ocean.

Have the local Democracy sunk into a state of innocuous desuetude? It looks that way. No symptoms of organization are apparent and the untried bold enough to run for city or county offices are painfully few. The Pond lily is not diffusing much fragrance in these parts.

In the light of recent events, we would venture to predict that the irrigation scheme will not pass just at present. Pasadenaans are not now in the humor for voting new bonds for any project.

The Athletic Club is a very vigorous infant. Seventy names are already down on the rolls.

NARROW ESCAPE

From Serious Injuries—Fall From a Carriage.

Mrs. Mason, a well-known elderly lady of town, had a narrow escape from a serious accident by being thrown from a carriage on Colorado street yesterday about noon.

She was sitting in the vehicle in front of Stevens's hardware store, and just as a heavy wagon was backing up to the curb her horse backed. A collision followed, which resulted in Mrs. Mason being thrown out, her hand striking the curbstones and one of the carriage wheels passing over her hand. The horse was stopped and Mrs. Mason carried into Wood's drug store, where restoratives were applied. She remained unconscious for a short time, but soon revived sufficiently to be taken home. Besides a few bruises and a badly shaken up nervous system, she was uninjured. It was a lucky escape.

Cut Down on Life's Threshold. Lloyd Gilman died at 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning at the home of his parents on Orange Place. He was in his seventeenth year of his age and came to Pasadena in hopes of benefiting his health. But the disease from which he had long been a sufferer had too strong a hold on his emaciated system and yesterday in the early dawn the end came. The boy's kindly disposition and patience in suffering endeared him to all who knew him, and the fact that his death was not unexpected makes the sorrow no less bitter.

The funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Jones on Orange Place. Next Thursday the body will be taken to Freeport, Ill., for interment.

SANTA MONICA.

Some of Those Who Were at the Beach Yesterday.

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 28.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] Col. E. E. Hewitt and Henry Steere enjoyed a day's outing at the beach today.

Geo. Wolf of Tucson, Ariz., who is visiting Santa Monica, is charmed with the perfect weather and surf bathing.

R. Cohn and family are experiencing the freedom of cottage life in the city by the sea.

The Mansfield brothers of Los Angeles are domiciled on North Beach with their families.

Chas. Kimball and J. W. Henry went to Los Angeles yesterday to spend the day.

M. C. Bruce and family, Mrs. C. Hannon, Chas. Wild, W. B. Scarborough and C. Brandt, are rustinating on North Beach, finding out-door life here all that the most exacting could desire.

Mrs. Josefa Sepulveda and family, Misses Lulu and Josefa Sepulveda, and Mrs. Meyo of Los Angeles, who are summering here, form one of the merriest parties daily seen on the sands.

Fishing at Avalon.

AVALON, Aug. 27.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] While the people are catching yellowtail, as they are in abundance, at Avalon, they ought to make good use of them themselves, or give them to their neighbors who will. No yellowtail, or any other fish should be caught to be thrown on the beach and rot in the sun, and I venture to say that no one with the right kind of a heart (a pure heart), will do such a thing. God in his great goodness gave us the fishes, as all good things, for our use and to bless us, and not for us to abuse and shamefully waste. Every yellowtail caught should be salted and cured, or in some other manner saved to feed one's own self or the hungry about him. I have heard it said that yellowtail fish are no good. So are the people who said so. They are more than good; they are very nice; and I will tell you and the readers of THE TIMES how to prepare them, so if you or they should happen to catch them, there will be no good excuse for throwing them on the beach to offend the fastidious reader.

First fished them to H. Miller, then clean skin and tails out on the backbones. By this process you will have two sides of the fish free from bones. You will observe, on the side from which you have removed the skin, dark colored fish. It looks more like meat of some kind. Cut into this lengthwise, rub salt well into these cuts and lightly salt the fish all over, let them remain in the salt over night; then put them out to dry with the salt still on them; and after about two hours, shake all salt remaining from them and let them dry till cured. It will take three or four days. They should be packed together and covered at night. Follow these directions and you will have cured fish worth eating. I can assure you, and such fish would command high prices in the market.

HENRY LEE.

Slight Difference of Opinion. (San Francisco Cal.)

The intellectual giant who controls the Stockton Mail declares that "Buckley was not a factor in the San José Convention." There is a slight difference of opinion on this respect between the Mail and the dandified competitors of Mr. Pond. Both Mr. English and Mr. Coleman attribute their overthrow to the influence of Mr. Buckley. The Mail sees no significance in the fact that in the fourth and decisive ballot Buckley was the San Francisco delegation nearly solid for Pond. It sees nothing significant in the fact that Pond has held the office of Mayor of San Francisco two terms while Buckley has been the acknowledged boss of the party. It sees no significance in the fact that while Pond has vetoed some of Buckley's bills he has never prevented one from becoming a law. In point of fact Mr. Pond and Mr. Buckley work together in harness quite well, though the political team is rather a tandem than a pair. These are matters which the ordinary intelligence takes note of.

ABOUT THE CITY.

The Local Happenings of a Quiet Thursday.

THE ATHLETIC CLUB'S MEETING.

Constitution and By-Laws Adopted—New Members Added—Locals, Personals and Brevities.

A largely attended meeting of the Athletic Club was held in the Pickwick rooms Wednesday evening. Vice-President H. H. Rose presided in the absence of President Summers.

The evening was chiefly occupied in adopting a constitution and by-laws, which were adopted section by section, with but few alterations from the manner in which they had been drawn up by the committee. The organization will hereafter be known as the Pasadena Amateur Athletic Club.

The report of the treasurer was submitted and accepted as read.

Six new names were added to the membership list.

No action was taken in reference to holding athletic sports on Admission day.

The next meeting will be held in the Pickwick rooms next Wednesday evening.

SCHOOL MATTERS.

Schedule of Teachers' Meetings and Entrance Examinations.

School Superintendent Monroe will hold teachers' meetings as follows: Seventh year, grade, September 3d, at 10 a.m.; principals, September 3d, at 12 p.m.; high school, September 4th, at 10 a.m.; principals, 3 p.m.; a meeting of all the teachers for instruction in music, conducted by Miss Stacey, September 12th, at 3 p.m.; a general meeting of all the city teachers, September 13th, at 10 a.m.; primary meeting, September 13th, 3 p.m. All these meetings will be held at the Wilson grammar school.

An entrance examination for admission to the eighth year and above will be held at the Wilson grammar school, September 11th, at 9 a.m. The pupils seeking admission to the seventh year and below will be examined September 12th, at 9 a.m. These entrance examinations are not for those pupils who were examined at the close of last term.

BREVITIES.

Last night was one of marvelous beauty.

The overland fall back into its bad habits yesterday. It was two hours late Rev. G. A. Utman talks of starting an Episcopal Mission on the top of Mt. Wilson.

Capt. Cross and Albert Cross have severed their connection with the Cross road.

A meeting of John F. Godfrey Post, G. A. R., was held yesterday evening at Strong's Hall.

The pepper trees that shade South Mareno avenue are being trimmed, a much-needed improvement.

Pasadena Lodge, No. 272, F. & A. M., will meet this evening. The second degree will be conferred.

H. E. Pratt has made some extensive changes and improvements in the interior arrangement of his store.

The streets within the city limits are uniformly in good condition. Sup't. Brown keeps his eyes open and his men at work.

Council meets tomorrow morning in regular session. The opening of the new library will doubtless be definitely decided upon.

Several of the Los Angeles Sisters were in town yesterday soliciting subscriptions for the support of the Olympia Asylum in Los Angeles.

No theater train will be run on the Cross road to night. The late train out Wednesday night carried only 18 people. The usual late train will be run tomorrow night.

The grounds about Mr. Miller's house, which was recently moved from North Pasadena to South Mareno's avenue, are being beautified, and already present a handsome appearance.

The subscription list for draying Company B's expenses on Admission day now foots up nearly $100. Several other companies besides those from Los Angeles are expected to be present.

A. D. G. Campbell has purchased from Rev. Mervin five acres of land, mostly set to peaches, on Villa street, west of Hill avenue. Mr. Campbell will build a residence on the land. The price paid was $1900.

At the meeting of Phil Kearney Camp held Wednesday evening it was decided to celebrate the fourth anniversary of its organization, which falls on October 25th, by an excursion to Santa Monica and a visit to the Soldiers' Home there.

PERSONALS.

Ex-City Attorney Conrey was up from Los Angeles yesterday.

M. E. Wood was out yesterday for the first time after a spell of illness.

Wm. R. Staats is back from a ten days' yachting cruise on the Paloma.

H. J. Vail will retire from the editorial management of the Star tomorrow.

J. H. Painter is lying seriously ill at his residence on North Fair Oaks avenue.

C. S. Martin returns to Catalina today to spend a week or more on the island.

Rev. G. A. Ottman has returned from Wilson's Peak. He prefers the mountains to the seashore.

Dr. John Shepard and family, who have been spending the past year in Pasadena, left last night for their home in London, England. They will sail from New York to Liverpool on a Cunarder.

Mrs. Alex McLean is in Santa Barbara county, where she will spend a month. Mr. McLean will leave for the same place today on business connected with his ranch, to be gone about ten days.

CLAIRVOYANT. SEER AND PROPHETESS. Your whole life and future told and tested at ST. NICHOLAS HOTEL, Mary St., Pasadena.
